TOWN COUNCIL

The last meeting of the Town Council proved somewhat more exciting than many of its predecessors. The notification by the Union Bank that monies standing to the credit of the Town's general account had been taken to pay off outstanding notes (against which the Town had hypothecated its arrears of taxes), without any notice of its intention being given was a veritable bombshell.

This unprecedented action of the Bank has jeopardized the position of the town to no small extent, particularly in regard to the adjustment of its affairs by the Municipal Finance Commission.

In view of the earnest and extreme effort made by the Council this year to put the town on a better footing the success of which were just beginning to show, and in consideration of the fact that the town had loyally endeavored to pay up its indebtedness to the Bank as monies were available (in fact all most one-half of the amount has already been paid) the action of the Bank officials was considered most high-handed and very ill-considered.

Had the Town endeavored to shirk its responsibility or had conditions been other than most promising, the action of the Bank might have been justified; as it is it can only be described as an exceedingly bad piece of business.

An appeal is to be made to the Municipal Finance Commission for assistance in the matter.

Among other business of interest was the request made by the Bassano Investment Co. for a compromise on the taxes due the town.

War Trophies Arrive.

The Town of Bassano is now in possession of two trophies of the Great War in the shape of machine guns captured from the Germans.

One of these guns is described by Cor. Ben Gray as a trench machine gun and the other as a field machine gun.

There is a notation of the history of each gun's capture painted on the guns but unfortunately they are at present indecipherable.

Failing a proper town hall where these trophies should be housed it is being arranged to have them placed in the Post Office.

by them on their subdivision south of the track, and permission to raise the plan. This request was not granted.

Mr. Wyatt, who has redeemed his property sold at the Tax Sale, made application for permission to rent his house, promising to install water and sewer connections in 30 days. This request was also turned down.

A letter was received from Ottawa notifying the Town that it had been awarded two captured machine guns as trophies of the Great War. The guns in question were also on view and it was decided to apply for permission to house them in the Post Office.

It was decided to send no delegates to the Union of Municipalities Convention and the secretary applied for leave of absence to attend it at his own expense. This request was granted.

A few witty remarks from the solicitor and a corresponding number of even more witty rejoinders from Councilor Allan, made a pleasing interlude to an otherwise weighty and interesting meeting.

Your House—Now Doubly Valuable So Doubly Worth Painting

YOU have always looked upon painting as an essential protection for your home. This year, possibly you are thinking you might save the money it costs to paint. But that is not saving—it's extravagance—more pronounced extravagance than in normal times. Remember that building materials are high and repairs (always more costly than painting) are abnormally expensive just now.

Remove the Discrimination

Certain statements of fact contained in the recent decision by the Board of Railway Commissioners upon the application of the railway of Canada for largely increased freight, passenger and sleeping car rates call for serious consideration by the people of this country. The facts referred to are of vital concern to the people of the West, and they must be the active agents in facing attention to them with a view to reform, but they are, in a broad national sense, matters of importance to the East as well as to the West.

It is not the intention of this article to discuss the merits of the case for increased rates; that is a matter to be decided by the Board of operation, wages paid, and costs of material used which the Railway Commission is well qualified to judge for itself. Apparently the Commissioners were thoroughly convinced that increased rates were fully justified and indeed necessary.

But in granting increased rates the Railway Commission authorized a 40 per cent. increase in Eastern Canada and a 35 per cent. increase in Western Canada. In explanation of this difference between the East and the West, the Commissioners, in their judgment, pointed out that the existing rates were from 13 to 18 per cent. higher in the West than in the East and they, therefore, authorized a five per cent. smaller advance in the West than in the East in order to partly remove the discrimination against the West which it was thus frankly admitted existed.

The action of the Commissioners was right so far as it went, but it did not go far enough. If discrimination against the citizens of any one section of this Dominion exists it is the duty of the Board of Railway Commissioners, as a national body, to proceed to the removal of that discrimination. One of the reasons for the creation of the Railway Commission was to put an end to discrimination in Canada and to see that even-handed justice was accorded to all.

The failure of duty on the part of the Railway Commission is all the more marked and noticeable because in Canada and in the United States, frankly admitted that costs of railway operation per ton or per car mile are lower in the West than in the East. If there is any justification whatever for a national administrative body to sanction discriminatory rates, then the lower rates in the West where costs of operation are lower, than in the East should enjoy the lower rates where the costs of operation are higher.

We hear a great deal these days in the nature of appeals to the Canadian people to develop a national spirit. They are urged, and rightly so, to think nationally rather than provincially; to view national questions, problems and policies in a big way as they affect the whole country, rather than from a narrow and selfish sectional standpoint. The East and West are urged to get together and to unite in the necessity of closing the gap which unfortunately exists in sentiment and upon economic issues between the manufacturing and financial East and the agricultural West.

Such appeals are all right and quite legitimate. It must be frankly recognized that the feeling of national sentiment is not a new thing. It is a national spirit and sentiment in order to promote the sound and rapid development of the Dominion. Such a spirit is absolutely essential to the making of a real nation. But nothing is to be gained by shutting our eyes to the fact that the feeling of national sentiment is not a new thing. It is a national spirit and sentiment in order to promote the sound and rapid development of the Dominion. Such a spirit is absolutely essential to the making of a real nation. But nothing is to be gained by shutting our eyes to the fact that the feeling of national sentiment is not a new thing.

If a Federal Government Commission admits that discrimination is practiced against one section of the Dominion, and it sanctions that discrimination, it is proceeding along a course which makes for disunion and effectively kills the movement for the development of a broad and sound national spirit. The inevitable effect of such action is to arouse a spirit of antagonism in the West against the East, and to give force to a renewal of the old demand for the division of the Railway Commission into two sections, one for the East and one for the West—something that is the reverse of national.

The feeling prevailing in the West that many Eastern people and interests look upon the West as a cow to be milked for their benefit, and that they have about as much regard for the West as they would have for a cow, is not allayed but increased when a national body like the Board of Railway Commissioners authorizes the perpetuation of discriminatory railway rates against the West—a discrimination which by their own judgment they show to be unequal for upon any economic grounds and, therefore, rankly unjust and unfair.

In the interests, not of the West alone, but of all Canada in order that a real national spirit and a sense of patriotism may be developed, this discrimination should be removed once and for ever. It is the duty of Parliament to amend the Railway Act, if necessary, specifically forbidding any and all such discrimination.

Politeness Costs Millions Potatoes, Uniform and Clean Recognized as Good Business and Money is Well Spent.

It has been estimated that "please" in telegrams costs the people of Canada 1 million a year, and the people of the United States 10 million a year. Whatever the cost, it is tolerably certain that the money is well spent. It is notable that the best business firms take the greatest possible pains to use the forms of politeness in correspondence of all kinds. They recognize that the cost is only good business to do so. Business long ago proved the value of "I thank you," and "If you please," which, as the kindergarten rhyme has it, are "little keys" to which "hearts open with ease." And what big business is not too proud to use "dear" and "very dear" potatoes have a good many people to the potatoes of the potato growing industry in Manitoba.

Tree 1,000 Years Old

Giant White Maple Measures Ninety Feet at Base.

Chicago has a candidate for the Hall of Fame for trees. It is a giant white maple nine feet in circumference at the base, 80 feet high and estimated to be 1,000 years old.

The big maple stands in the Cook county forest preserve near Glenview. Ransome Kennicot, chief forester of the preserve, who recently examined the tree and computed its age, found that, while the heart was dead, the exterior was sound and the tree capable of lasting many more years. So far as known, the tree is the oldest living thing in Illinois, according to Mr. Kennicot.

British Plan to Irrigate Alberta

Project Will Cover One-Fifth of Irrigable Area of Dominion.

The Right Hon. Sir Charles Hobbhouse, of London, England, has just returned to Montreal from an inspection of the great irrigation canals of Alberta, extending for 100 miles between Calgary and Medicine Hat. The plans contemplated by the British syndicate, which has been formed by Sir Charles, will embrace the building of another canal of equal extent. The undertaking to date has involved an expenditure of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000, in construction and improvements. By actually going over the ground Sir Charles was much impressed with the magnitude of the enterprise. From an engineering standpoint alone it represented a work of great importance. In its completed state the project will cover one-fifth of the total irrigable area of the Dominion of Canada.

One of the things remarked upon by Sir Charles was the contrast between the bare desert of the great arid area in which the work is carried and the luxuriant fertility of the soil where the water has already been brought upon it. About 400 acres have been brought under irrigation, and the value of the crops to be seen there, when Sir Charles went to see the work, was estimated between $25,000 and $300,000, and this, he said, was not on soil expected to produce the very best results. There are quite a number of settlers going out on the irrigated belt and the expectation was that the amount of land under irrigation would be trebled by the beginning of next year.

HEART SO BAD WAS NOT SAFE TO LEAVE HER ALONE

Miss Eva P. Vatemann, Krugersdorf, I. Ind., writes: "I feel, I must write and tell you of the benefit I have received from Miller's Heart and Nerve Pills. About four years ago I was afflicted with terrible heart, heart, nerves and fainting spells, and was down bed for about six months. I doctored with two different doctors and seemed to get better, although the fainting spells would not leave me. I would take such terrible spells, wherever I was, that I was not safe to leave me alone at any time. At last I decided to try Miller's Heart and Nerve Pills, and took several different kinds, but seemed to receive but little benefit from them. One day noticing the advertisement of Miller's Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them, and before I had taken more than two boxes I could see they were helping me. I have taken about ten boxes and am almost cured of my terrible spell. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me, and I advise any one troubled with their heart to try them, as I am confident they will find relief. Miller's Heart and Nerve Pills. Onions and tomatoes and potatoes have a larger acreage this season than ever in the history of the district, and the output of all three are expected to constitute records.

Justices supported by a dops band member of the demi-monde, and a stool-pigeon, was dispensed at the Town Hall, Bassano, when a specially imported bunch of "justice" mongers sat to convict (for it was evident that only a conviction would satisfy their lust) one of the whitest, four-square men to be found in the whole Dominion, a man whose record of public service and self denying consistency to the call of his profession has caused thousands of people in this District to call blessings on his head.

The law, with such repulsive objects as the stool-pigeon, (who is the only thing on law lower than a snake) and the demi-monde (who perhaps is to be more pitied for her existence than blamed for being forced to act as she has done, and win, to the way, had to be brought from and appear, with her stool-pigeon side-kick), so closely allied with it, presented little of the dignified majesty which is usually associated with British justice, and the attempt to denude the character of such an outstanding and splendid man as Doctor Scott with the aid of the repulsive objects already mentioned even though on a mere technicality our "Doc," was met.

If the stool pigeon hoped to get back at Doc, and by these contemptible methods attempt to blacken the character of one whose boots he is not worthy to kick, he has failed absolutely and utterly.

Such men as Dr. Scott are so far above the knowledge of stool-pigeons and their unfortunate associates that any such attempts by them are positively revolting, and the law that permits the use of such disgusting methods for obtaining convictions should be speedily obliterated for it is foreign to every conception of British decency and justice.

Isn't It True?

A visitor to Bassano last week was very much surprised upon being informed that the Town owned a very considerable portion of property in the town limits.

He asked the reason and upon being told that the majority of owners grew tired of paying taxes upon property which apparently would never be worth much and consequently forfeited same for taxes, said "the silly boobies; I suppose they bought the land in the first place on the strength of paper developments, but now that the developments are springing up before their very eyes, they shake their heads wisely and refuse to 'bite' again." "I prophesy," he said "that not 10% of the town people will reap one mickle of advantage from these vast developments which are now actually being built.

And isn't it true? Are we not all so ill-advised wise that we simply refuse to believe that the C.P.R. really means business with all the money it has spent here this year on the new terminal? We are all sure that the company is only doing it for the fun of the thing.

And the upshot will be that we shall wake up one day to find a real honest-to-goodness boom on and we shall have permitted another gilt-edged opportunity get away from us.

Organized Farmers Arrange Joint Drive

Week of November 1st fixed as date for Campaign in three Western Provinces

According to reports received at this office, the week beginning November 1st will witness the greatest organization campaign ever conducted by the farmers' associations of the West. The campaign is to be carried out at the same time in each one of the three Western Provinces under the auspices of the U.F.A., the Saskatchewan Growers' Association and the United Farmers of Manitoba. It is expected that there will be upwards of ten thousand canvassers working under approximately six hundred district captains and forty constituency organizers. These canvassers will personally visit the resident farmers in their respective districts and collect, from each, money with which to finance the organization.

Plan of Organization

There is, in each of the three provinces, a United Provinces Committee. The plans for the campaign were arranged by a conference of the district committees and with the consent of a central committee of the boards. The plan is to have a canvasser in each township for the three provinces.

Mr. Herbert Greenfield, Secretary, U.F.A., Red Deer, and Mr. Nelson Smith, Secretary, Saskatchewan Central Committee, Regina, are the organizers of the campaign. The U.F.A. has a list of all the township organizers who will have full authority for organizing the drive for the district.

The institution of a campaign, looking with the residents of the province, will result in a list of all the township organizers in the district into which of approximately nine townships each and over each unit of the township is placing a "District Captain." The district captains are endeavoring to enlist the services of at least one man or woman in each one-half township for their respective jurisdictions—who will agree to personally visit every resident in the township on November 1st or November 2nd, to collect from each one $200, of which $100 will be for the U.F.A. and $100 for the Saskatchewan Growers' Association. A list of the township organizers and membership dues in the joint organization.

A similar membership drive was made in Saskatchewan last October 1st and in Manitoba in March 1920. In the Saskatchewan drive upwards of 2000 canvassers were enlisted and the sum of $200,000 was collected. In Manitoba about 1000 canvassers were in the field and over $200,000 was collected.

The drive to be held in November has been much more thoroughly organized and it is confidently expected that upwards of 10,000 active canvassers will be in the field.

To Offset the Low Price of Wheat

Every farmer is disappointed at the low price of wheat and many of them have had to be cannibalized because of the difference the drop brings has meant to them.

When he looks at the cheque received at the elevator for his wheat and thinks of the high cost of everything else he has to buy there is no doubt many a farmer has and that he grieved he would have to make his land do another winter. But there is no need for that because it is possible to get a better price for wheat in the next year at $200 a ton.

The reason for this must be the right at the Government of the day to make us we are not sure of it. But for that reason there are no certain profits to make a quick return.

There is the present danger of having that harvest from now on for the next few years every man in the district to reap the benefit of it.

Every man who is a farmer must be in the right line of the day to get a better price for wheat in the next year.

We strongly advise every man who has a wheat crop to get a better price for wheat in the next year.

We can get you all the latest news from the district.

Farmers are Warned

Information has come to the U.F.A. Central office that some unauthorized persons are soliciting contributions for the big Membership Drive that is being planned. A report came in over the phone from the Flavelly district that someone was at work in that district soliciting contributions to the drive, unknown to the official workers.

The U.F.A. Central Office would like to warn farmers that anybody who is authorized to solicit contributions in connection with this drive is supplied with official receipt books and that every canvasser has a written authorization from the District Captain, who is usually one of the best known men in the district, so that there should be no difficulty in promptly ascertaining whether a canvasser is bona fide, if there is any doubt in the matter.

How Saskatchewan University Responded To the Call to Arms

When the call to arms sounded throughout the Empire in the ever-memorable summer of '14, the response of the universities was regarded as remarkable. The remarkable thing would have been, if from the homes of culture and idealism, where honor, righteousness and truth are cherished as man's supreme possessions, the response had not been as prompt and full as it was. In that prompt and full response Saskatchewan had a voice.

Today, as a result of the war, the University has in its possession, a symbol that will always be greatly treasured. It is a huge, red flag, fringed with dark-blue stars. There is a star for every university man that enlisted. In the middle of the flag is a rectangle of white dotted with red stars. These red stars represent the fallen; there are sixty-six of them.

Entering the main building of the University, the visitor is at once arrested by the array of names engraved along the wall of the main corridors. These are the honored names of student warriors. It would almost seem that the university mission guided the architect when he planned that unusual frieze, destined to be so soon and so eloquently inscribed.

These University corridors have become vocal for all time. Year in and year out, as new stars appear on them, they will be reminded of the blood-purchased honor gained for the University in the grim years of war, and the solemn proupling of those tablets will not be without effect.

The University at Saskatoon was five years old in 1914. Those five years saw the coming up, with every heart of the pride, of the splendid, white-stone buildings which are today the pride of the city. In those five years saw the staff of five that had first gathered in some town offices increased to thirty, while the student body shot from 15 to 400. The prospect was golden.

Came the nightmare of August, 1914, and the shadow of war, falling over the world, caught the young University. By the following year no less than eleven members of the staff and over 100 of the students had gone overseas. A literary department sent its typists—engineers, lawyers, theologians, artists, even marching off together. "We are confident," said Dr. Murray in his report for 1914-15, "that our students who have gone forth will bring honor and glory to their country and their University. Their ranks include the very best of our members, the most generous, the most unselfish, the most intelligent, the most industrious, as well as the most daring and courageous. When we selected the phrase, 'Deo et Patria' (For God and Country) as our motto, we little thought that the supreme test of our devotion to our Country was so near at hand."

That confidence of the University which the President expressed was abundantly justified, and in his first postwar report, Dr. Murray thus speaks:

The Imperishable Glory.
"If in the last five years we can not show an outward and visible growth in buildings comparable to that of the first five, we can show an achievement that will live in the history and cast a glory upon this University and the men who played their part nobly in these dark years. A student body that will make the material and flashy achievements of other years appear sordid, mean and petty."

"In these sombre years nearly three hundred and thirty students and teachers took up arms for human liberty and human rights. They fought with a bravery and a devoted disregard for self that will bring the flush of pride to the cheeks of countless generations as they read the epics of their golden deeds. Of that number a full hundred suffered wounds and serious illness; thirty-four were selected for special honor by their Sovereign; and sixty sleep as heroes sleep, robed in the imperishable glory of brave and noble deeds to be remembered by their grandeur, but as we roll away on the wheels of time from the immediate time and place of their happenings, they will live majestic, the mountain peak from the receding plain. Too near are we to speak without undue emotion of what they were and did, and of what their going means to us."

"To one familiar with the University a glance down the scroll of the fallen brings home how tremendous the loss has been. Early in the list is the honored name of Reginald John Bateman, first professor of English at the University, one of the first to answer the call and one of the last to fall. Joining up as a private in 1914, he quickly rose to the rank of sergeant, went overseas with the 26th Battalion, being recalled in '16 to the command of a company in the University. The last summer of '18, truly he was "a man, take him for all in all, in 'We' shall not look upon his like again."

Scholar, athlete, singer, poet, beloved alike by colleagues and students, died of false foot and the 'dod' as comrades in arms. Professor Bateman, dying in France, had just a golden test to the book of the humanities he taught.

Scholar, athlete, singer, poet, beloved alike by colleagues and students, died of false foot and the 'dod' as comrades in arms. Major Bateman, dying in France, had added a golden test to the book of the humanities he taught. His name is being taken at the University to perpetuate the memory of this 'patriotic' spirit, beautiful and heroic.

Next to Major Bateman's name comes that of Harold John Blair, who for conspicuous bravery as a scout-officer was awarded the M.C. He had obtained his degree in Arts at the University and while in Arts at the University and while in Arts at the University is graduated and the world is listening yet.

A little lower in the list is William Henry Davis, also an M.C., one of the early graduates of Emmanuel, an affiliated College of the University. He enlisted as a chaplain and met his death while bearing out wounded in the battle of Amiens. His M.C. came for bravery in the hell that was Passchendaele.

The name of William Yeates Hilt, senior catches the eye. A brilliant student of English, Capt. Hunter, after graduation, received an appointment as instructor at the University, fully seconding the efforts of Professor Bateman. Like the professor, Captain Hunter fell in France. There died an accomplished, gentlemanly, fine soldier and a poet and writer of no mean renown.

James Ross Macpherson, D.S.O., of the year '15, was also a poet, whose verses in the University magazine were, it is generally agreed, of outstanding merit. Major Macpherson rose from the ranks to the position of second-in-command of that distinguished regiment, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. A clever student, perished at Concreville on the Somme, being first killed. "A prince of good fellows was Hilt, with a delicate and serene of humor and the keenest of minds."

Let the name of Arthur Lloyd complete the selection—a selection made almost at random of men known more intimately than others to the writer. Arthur was the youngest son of Dr. G. E. Lloyd, of

This picture shows the University flag, wrought by the lady students, containing a star for every man who enlisted. The stars on the white background represent the slain.

Bare Colony fame, after whom Lloyd-Smith was named. Dr. Lloyd's two other sons, Eton and Percy, also graduates of the University, fought bravely on the western front, the latter gaining an M.C. All three boys were badly wounded, but Arthur alone mortally so. He had enlisted before being of age, was a sergeant while still in his teens, and fell as an officer. He fought as he played, the college games, with all the vigor and freshness of youth; and he typified that host of eager young menhood, the blood of the University, who in the words of Brooke—
"Poured out the red, sweet wine of youth."

So far as is known the following honors fell to Saskatchewan University men—

- 18 M.C.'s
- 18 Military Crosses
- 5 Military Medals
- 3 Distinguished Conduct Medals
- 3 Mentioned in Despatches
- 2 Distinguished Service Order
- 1 Croix de Guerre

The head of the Khaki University was Dr. Edmund H. Oliver, first Professor of History in the University and now Principal of the affiliated Presbyterian College. For his work in France he was mentioned in despatches and promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. Captain Oliver, who achieved immense things for the Khaki University, was a graduate of the University. He has subsequently been ordained to the Presbyterian Ministry. Several other Saskatchewan University men assisted in the Khaki University, both in their units in France and in the colleges which were subsequently formed. Captain J. B. Allen, M.C., had the honor of being the first British officer to enter Baghdad.

Certainly the record of the Provincial University is one of which it and the Province may well be proud. Tradition has been established that should, in those that follow after, call forth their highest and best. Although the college halls are so new as still to be bright from the mason's strokes, yet it may be said that the University is hallowed and consecrated by the memories of the men who have wrought for their honor, and who have translated their motto into a glowing epic—"Die et Patria."

Prince of Wales To Sell Estate

Large Slice of South London Will Be Put up for Auction This Fall.

The Prince of Wales has joined the army of patriotic landlords who are putting their real estate on the market owing to the heavy taxation on land, which since the war is now a ruin.

As Duke of Cornwall, the British heir apparent owns a large slice of South London, which is known as the Prince's estate. A portion of the estate will be put up for auction in the fall, with a view to building development. This section of the Prince's land has been mostly cleared of its old decayed buildings since succeeding to the estate, the Prince has taken an active interest in it, and a number of model dwellings for artisans have been built.

Cutting Corn for Silage

It Should Not Be Too Green Or Too Dry.

"When is the best time to cut corn for silage?"
Corn is ready to go into the silo when the kernels are hard, when the lower three or four leaves are brown (as the rest of maturity is reached) and the husks are beginning to dry. If cut when much greener than this, the silage will be too green and so sour and unpalatable and will not keep well. If it is much drier than indicated, the finely cut corn will not pack satisfactorily and pockets or spots of moldy silage may result.

If corn cannot be cut until it is quite dry sufficient water must be mixed with it when it is put into the silo to make it possible to pack it properly. The amount of water desirable will vary, but broadly it may be said that there is greater danger of adding too little water than too much.

Many people are made giddy by the sound itself.

Ventilation And Light

Four Square Feet of Glass Needed For Each Animal Housed.

According to a summary of the tuberculosis eradication work carried on by the United States government in co-operation with the different states throughout the country, there are now in the United States 2,555 accredited herds. Minnesota leads with 413. She is followed by Virginia with 335, while Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and North Dakota each have 220, 177 and 166 accredited herds. Never before have so many cattle been tested for tuberculosis in a given length of time as during the last 12 months. Everywhere cattle men are beginning to realize that bovine tuberculosis is a real menace to their herds and that the sooner they clean them up the better it will be.

It is not enough to give the farmstead and barn one thorough cleaning after a test for tuberculosis has been made and the same disposed of. That sort of work must be followed up and the place be maintained in sanitary condition at all times.

Now is this all the average barn needs better ventilation and more light. The worst enemy of tuberculosis is light and the more of it we get into our barns the less there is of tuberculosis maintaining itself or of spreading from one animal to another in any one herd. The best authorities in the country consider that a table should be provided with four square feet of glass for each animal housed and that the windows should be so placed that the light in every part of the building may be reached by the sun in the summer months, and the day. This much window space may seem like extravagance to the man who has been working in a dark barn, but in reality it is economy.

In one instance a herd of registered Holsteins, cattle had been tested annually for tuberculosis for over 10 years and whenever a reacting animal was found it was disposed of. In spite of all the care exercised, one year it was found that over 50 per cent of the cattle in that herd reacted. We have no explanation of this condition is as follows: When a cow becomes badly diseased with tuberculosis she will react to the ordinary thermal tuberculin test. Such a cow was found in that herd which suddenly broke with a generalized case of tuberculosis and became what is known as a "spreader." In a single year something like 30 animals became infected with tuberculosis from this "spreader." Had the barn in which these cattle were housed been thoroughly lighted and ventilated, the chances are that the disease would have spread nearly as fast as it did.

The extra cost of putting in a few windows, after all, is not excessive, and an abundance of light materially contributes to the health of the herd, so that the expenditure really becomes a profitable one. Not only must we provide more light in our barns than we have been doing in the past, but we must also provide better venting facilities. The cow's coat is not without making the barn too cold, a good ventilating system is required.

The Forest's Tribute To the Newspapers

1,000 Square Miles of Pulpwood Forest Demanded Annually to Supply Newspaper.

The newspapers of the United States and Canada consume 2,150,000 tons of newspaper annually. Stated in this way, it probably conveys little information to you, respecting the effect upon our forests. You are probably more familiar with the fact that when I say that it represents the denudation of the mature trees on an area of 1,000 square miles of forest land each and every year. This will give you an idea of the enormous loads that newspaper manufacture is making upon the forests of North America—James White is address to the Vancouver Rotary Club.

Invents Machine For Pulling Flax

Montréal Men Claims It Will Replace Ropes Pullers.

Geo. Summer, president of Hodgson Gunner Company, Montréal, and president of the Montréal Board of Trade, who is 84 years of age, has, in association with Victor E. Freeman, of New York, invented, after 10 years' effort, a machine which, it is claimed, will replace the almost extinct flax man, who for thousands of years pulled flax by hand. The machine was demonstrated at a gathering held in farm implements industries, as well as agricultural experts from all over the United States, and it was agreed was a success. It operated without a hitch and harvested the flax more closely than was done by a gang of expert pullers employed to pull a patch by hand.

Why His Jaw Dropped.

"There isn't much I don't know about the English language," boasted the long-haired man in the club. "I'll test you," replied a friend. "I'll dictate a paragraph to you." With an assured air the boaster seized his pencil, but his jaw dropped as he heard the following: "As Hugh Hughes was heaving a log from a new tree, a man dressed in clothes as dark and harvested the flax more closely than was done by a gang of expert pullers employed to pull a patch by hand."

A New Bird in Bassano

Anticipating many enquiries from our readers as to the origin, appearance, and habits of the new species of bird discovered by Bassano recently we have pleasure in submitting the following facts regarding this bird which has been named the stool-pigeon.

It originated in the fertile brain of a semi-moribund attorney-general's department somewhere west of the Great Lakes.

It has none of the distinguishing features of a human being, none conscience, honor, ambition or decency. It has almost as much brains as a half-bride goose, and just a little less backbone than a jelly-fish.

Its habits are those of a snake and is perhaps just as welcome in decent society. It exists solely for the same purpose, that the first snake was condemned by God for doing, viz: temptation, and like the first snake is condemned by the majority of decent people to grovel in the mire and dust.

Like the dove, the fly and the mosquito these little things are sent to try us and to create a market for disposing of insect powder.

They are, however, about as dangerous as a mad dog with rabies and should be treated in the same expedient manner.

Enlightened biologists tell us that the next few years will find these repulsive birds extinct, for they are being hunted down by all clean minded people and there are great hopes that even in the decaying vegetation which exists in the attorney-general's departments this para-parasitical abnormality will no longer find a refuge from the fury of an outraged and indignant civilization.

A Sure Cure for Pessimism

If there is anyone in town who still doubts the greatness of Bassano's future as a railroad centre he should pay a visit of inspection to the scene of the development work of the C.P.R., and if he gets an inch beyond his nose he must then be convinced that with developments of such magnitude a very large number of men must of necessity be engaged here to operate the new terminal when it is completed.

The foundations are laid for the giant ninety foot turntable, the coal hoists, and the round-house and new tracks are being laid all over the place.

The foundations for the east and west extensions of the depot are also completed and show the full extent of the new depot.

Even the most pessimistic man in town must now admit that it is no longer possible to doubt that all these developments must mean a tremendous benefit to the town in every way and particularly with regard to the building up on a permanent basis the population of the town with the most denigrate class of people it is possible to obtain anywhere.

STYLE HEADQUARTERS

Where Society Brand Clothes are sold

There's a new style note

You will see the new style note in all wherever the best dressed people gather—in homes or in clubs, at parties or at work. The new style is a welcome change to most men. It's a change from the high-collared, pinched-in and starched clothes to simple, clean-cut, fall coats that hang straight on the body, over the shoulders. Vents will be shorter, noticeably shorter, in fall suits.

Society Brand Suits for fall embody correctly these style changes. The highest priced and proudest custom tailor in town is cutting his fall suits along these lines.

We have the style in Society Brand Suits. Also the fabrics and the fine tailoring. A call at our store is like visiting an exhibit of advanced style.
